Sam G. Harris reports in this morning's Arkansas Gazette on a theme that will be familiar to Star readers — the endless diversion of state funds from the original purpose for which their taxes were levied.

This morning Mr. Harris is writing about the diversion of highway funds. His report on an analysis by the state comptroller's staff shows that in the last seven years: Arkansas collected 19 1/2 million dollars in highway revenues — 34 per cent of all the state's tax collections.

Of this 19 1/2 million, 58 million was spent for highway bond retirement and interest; 90 million for highway construction and maintenance; and slightly more than 1/2 million for highway debt service reserve.

This leaves unaccounted for nearly 42 million dollars over the seven-year period — 42 millions out of total highway tax collections of 19 1/2 millions. Most of the diversion is explained by the "turnback" to county and city governments for local road purposes, and gasoline tax refunds.

However, a known 3 per cent of the grand total of 19 1/2 millions collected was flagrantly diverted to the general revenue fund under the so-called Revenue Stabilization Act.

There is some merit to the contention of the counties and cities that they need revenue for local road and street purposes, but the raid on the state highway funds has been sharp, persistent, and destructive. As Mr. Harris points out in this morning's article the total diversion in the last seven years have built 36 miles of concrete, four-lane, heavy-duty highway — or 830 miles of standard blacktop road.

And the diversion of 3 per cent of all monies to the non-highway purposes of the general revenue fund is utterly without justification.

The people of Arkansas might as well understand that they will never have secure and stable public institutions while they tolerate the persistent diversion of tax monies away from the purpose for which they were levied. This is an old, old story, belonging to no particular governor or legislature. But I blame all legislatures rather than all governors — for it was in the legislatures as long as the memory of man runneth that lobbyists brought pressure to bear and diverted taxes away from their original and most useful purpose.

We voted a 2 per cent state sales tax nearly 20 years ago to help the public schools and public welfare, but the allegedly vigilant school lobby was so busy with other things that it let the fund in for heavy diversions to non-school and non-welfare purposes — so heavy, in fact, that pretty soon we were asked to increase the sales tax to 3 percent, a proposal only narrowly beaten last year.

We have liquor and beer taxes for the benefit of the schools and charity, and yet when a county votes "dry" the legislature permits it to go right on drawing liquor tax support after it has quit paying the tax — which constitutes a fraud and a diversion against the rest of the state which is still collecting the tax.

This is a picture that should be studied and remembered by the voters with special attention to the legislature — where the remedy lies.

The Star has fought tax diversion for more than 20 years.

An awakened public can stop it any time it chooses. The alternative for not stopping it is to see ever-increasing taxes and an ever-shrinking public service where we want it most.

STOCK MARKET
New York, June 17 (UP) — Stocks opened irregular and quiet today.

Dow Chemical lost 1 1/2 points on the first sale. Most other exchanges held to fractions. Metals ruled firm.

The opening was just about a duplicate of yesterday's with many issues holding at the previous close.

Market men anticipated continuation of the quiet trading until the various labor troubles are out of the way.

Early orders to the brokerage offices were in small amounts with the tendency mixed.

Trading turned more dull after the opening.

Sen. Brewster Is Defeated in Maine Primary

Portland, Me., June 17 (AP) — Owen Brewster, the Senate's fifth ranking Republican, was defeated yesterday for renomination by Gov. Frederick G. Payne by 3,000 votes in Maine's closest, most vicious primary in almost 30 years.

The total vote in yesterday's balloting was a record 153,754 for the GOP and Democratic Senate bids. The old record was 149,000 in 1940.

Brewster, whose turbulent political career goes back to the early 1820's, said he dispatched this telegram to Payne:

"Congratulations on your nomination and the opportunity it offers for service to your state and nation."

Brewster said he had not given any consideration as yet to the possibility of seeking a recount. He indicated that consideration would await an official canvass of the vote.

The defeated senator signed a statement: "I am deeply grateful to the people of Maine for the opportunity afforded me for many years to serve them in various capacities. I am particularly grateful at this time to the great number of our citizens who yesterday indicated their confidence in me and my record."

"I shall continue to be as much interested as ever in Republican success in the coming elections."

An unofficial tabulation gave Payne 68,465 votes to Brewster's 65,357. Only eight of 625 precincts were out and they have but a handful of votes.

Barring a tremendous upset — no Democrat has won a major office since 1934 — the 51-year-old Payne will win again in the first-in-the-nation Sept. 8 election.

His Democratic foe will be Roger P. Dube, 30, a surprise primary winner over Earl S. Grant, 12,576 to 9,336. Grant was the 1950 gubernatorial candidate.

Not until practically every note was in would Payne admit that he had won. "I feel better now," he said and issued a victory statement thanking the voters for a great tribute.

The affable, personable Payne came to the governorship in 1949 after a varied business and political career. He had been a newspaper, theater manager, accountant, mayor of Augusta, state finance officer in World War II.

Brewster, at 64, has been in the Senate 12 years. He also was governor and congressman for six years. He was last chairman of the Senate's World War II investigating committee originally headed by President Truman and also was on the committee that probed Pearl Harbor.

He supports Ohio's Sen. Taft for the presidency; Payne is an Eisenhower man, but the presidential angle didn't figure in the primary fight.

What brought out the bitterness in the contest was a legislative committee probe into charges of graft and influence — peddling in the state liquor monopoly. Both men were mentioned.

Herman Sahagun, a wine bottler, told the committee he paid $12,000 graft to Frederick W. Papopolis of Boston, who claimed to have influence with Payne. Papopolis denied having any influence as did Payne and told of Sahagun bringing him a $25,000 offer from Brewster for political aid. Brewster denied his story.

Brewster claimed the big issue was his support of the Taft-Hartley Act. The American Federation of Labor's League for political Education endorsed Payne.

Senate President Burton M. Cross won the Republican gubernatorial nomination and will be opposed in September by Democratic James C. Oliver, a former Republican congressman.

Cross got 54,858 votes to 44,190 for Executive Council Chairman LeRoy F. Hussey and 36,673 for Neil S. Bishop, former state senator.

Three Republican congressmen — Robert Hale, Charles P. Nelson and Clifford G. McIntire — were unopposed for renomination.

James A. McVicar, former Democratic state chairman, defeated Dr. Adrian H. Scollen, 4,210 to 2,341, in Hale's 1st District.

The Democratic winner in Nelson's 2nd District has said he wouldn't accept nomination. Leonard B. Currier, former state senator, beat Antonio M. Chiaravallotti 5,438 to 3,158.

One of the features of the Teddy Phillips Show which will play for a show and dance in the Coliseum here Wednesday night, June 25, will be Lynne Hoyt. She sang with the Phillips Show here last September when the group performed three nights during the Third District Livestock Show.

Congressmen Would Gladly Back Fulbright

Washington, June 17 (AP) — The Arkansas congressional delegation has generally endorsed Sen. Fulbright as Arkansas' favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The state's 22 delegates have been pledged to support Fulbright on the first ballot at the party's national convention.

Arkansas members of Congress interviewed yesterday had no objection to the state not having named any of its congressional or state officials as convention delegates.

As for the action on Fulbright, Rep. Trimble put it:

"I'm for him all the way. If we can't get him in as president, then I'm for him as vice president."

Sen. McClellan said "I would have been glad to support Bill Fulbright for president if I had been a delegate."

Rep. Mills said he favors Fulbright and feels that convention delegates should be chosen from Arkansas not in Congress so that more people will have an opportunity to participate in party affairs.

A special meeting of the American Legion has been called for 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Elks Building, for the purpose of electing new officers. Commander Fred Robertson urges all members to be present.

'Honorable Fathers' of Rising Sun Are Losing Their Power — Mama Is Stepping Out Now

By HAL BOYLE
New York, June 17 (AP) — Papa-San is taking it on the chin in Japan.

"Honorable Father" is losing his age-old power over Mama-San, or "Honorable Mother." The theory of male dominance is setting in the Land of the Rising Sun, just as it set in America a generation ago.

Soon the hand that rocks the cradle will rule the roost in most of Japan, just as it does now in most of the Western world.

The twilight of Far Eastern manhood was forecast in a recent dispatch from Futakawa village on the Japanese island of Honshu. The village elders there, bowing to changing times, voted that women were to have a holiday the 15th of each month, on which day men will wash, cook and do all the other household chores.

In a lame justification of this retreat from traditional masculine authority, the elders told the women they were expected to use their holidays to "elevate their cultural standards."

But if they really think Mama-San is going to spend her new leisure studying flower arrangements — well, they just don't know Mama-San.

I will lay those village wise men 3 to 1 odds that before the year is out Mama-San will be going into politics, organizing softball teams and learning to play canasta and blow smoke rings through her nose.

The odds are heavy also that Mama-San will live up to an old Western proverb holding that if you give a woman an inch she will take a mile.

"Why should we have a holiday just once a month?" she will ask. "Let's put our foot down, girls, and get a holiday every week, plus half a day off on Sunday."

And before long, Papa-San will be doing the dishes and dispersing in fear old Futakawa, while Mama-San rules the roost.

Angry Swedes Send Jets With Searchers

Stockholm, Sweden, June 17 (AP) — Infuriated Swedes kept up their search over the Baltic Sea today for a missing transport plane sent along jet fighter escort with orders to shoot if the Russians attacked.

The traditionally neutral nation's stern action reflected the anger expressed by the government, press and people over the shooting down yesterday of an unarmed Swedish flying boat by two Soviet MIG-14 jet fighter planes.

The seven crew members — two of them wounded — of the downed plane were picked up from the sea by a small German freighter and taken to Hangoo, Finland.

They had been searching for a Swedish transport DC3 missing since Friday with eight men aboard. It was assumed here the Russians had shot down that craft also, but the search continued today.

A Swedish Air Force spokesman announced early today that all aircraft participating in the continuing search have been supplied with jet fighter escort. He said the fighters had been told to return fire if attacked.

Some 3,000 furious Swedes, jeering, shouting, "We will see Stalin hanged," and "Down with the Communist warmongers," demonstrated in front of the Russian Embassy last night in protest against yesterday's attack.

The government handed Russian Ambassador Constantin Rodinov a "strong protest" against this "act of violence" and demanded "swift punishment of those responsible for the outrage."

The captain of the Swedish plane said he was jumped by the two Soviet fighters about 10 miles off the Soviet-held Estonian Coast, in an area where the Russians are reported to be holding vast sea and air maneuvers.

Six of the plane crew were flown back to Stockholm last night to appear before an inquiry board of high Air Force officials. The seventh, who had been shot in the arm, remained in a Hangoo hospital.

Editorials in Stockholm newspapers of all political shades bitterly assailed the Russian attack as "piracy," "aggression," and "ruthless terrorism."

The Socialist Morgon-Tidningen, mouthpiece of the government, described it as "cruel and senseless act," "enraging the whole nation."

Describing the incident as a "part of a ruthless terror campaign," the Liberal Dagens Nyheter expressed confidence that the government would "not resign itself to this reign of terror in international waters."

Warns Check Artists Back in Hope

Sheriff Claud Sutton and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Royce Weisenberger issued the following statement:

"About two years ago we warned the general public, and especially the merchants, about cashing checks of questionable worth. A number of persons have been sentenced to the penitentiary on check law violations since and many have been fined. A number of people have lost money. In some cases carelessness would have avoided this loss."

"Please be careful in cashing checks. Make sure of the identification. Be sure the person signing the check endorses it, preferably in your presence. If you do not know the person, be more careful. If you do cash a check for a stranger, require him or her to write his address below the name. Then make a notation like this on it — BM for black male age about 35, WF 50 for white female age about 50, etc., on a corner of the check. This will help you recall who passed the check to you, if it proves bad."

Recently we have had a number of bad checks brought to us by merchants who did not know, and no one in the store knew, who cashed the check or anything about the person that presented the check. A number of counter checks of established factories here that use only payroll form checks and check writers have been cashed by merchants aware of this standard practice. Other merchants have cashed checks without the payee's name being endorsed thereon at all.

"We respectfully urge all our citizens to be careful about cashing checks, especially for strangers."

Parsons-Hathcock Marriage Announced

In a candlelight ceremony performed Tuesday evening, June 3, at the Central Methodist Church, Fayetteville, Miss. Caroline Sue Hathcock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Preston Loyce Hathcock of Fayetteville, became the bride of Ira Vernon Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Parsons of Hope.

The Reverend D. L. Dykes, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony. Plumosis, huckleberry and ferns decorated the choir rail and chancel rail, forming the background for candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and peonies.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Roy V. Simpson at the organ. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Flynn O'Malley sang "Because" preceding the ceremony. During the ceremony Mrs. Simpson played "Oh, Perfect Love" which was sung by the choir at the close of the prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heirloom antique-colored satin and nylon illusion net, fashioned on princess lines, featuring a petal collar which finished the neckline of the fitted bodice, and a sweeping train formed by the bouffant skirt. The skirt and the tight sleeves that tapered over the hands were finished with satin-bound net. Her veil of illusion was of Belgian princess lace, worn by her mother at her wedding, and fell from a scalloped calot of satin trimmed with pearls. The pendant she wore was a colored miniature encircled by diamonds, an heirloom piece which was worn by her mother and other bride of the family. She carried ivory colored gladioli and lilies-of-the-valley with a white prayer book.

Miss Gretchen Stevenson, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Alice Paddock Pearson, Miss Louise Lambert, and Miss Caroline Stevenson. Nile green organza over taffeta was worn by the maid of honor, styled with a crumb catcher revealing two deep rows of acorned pleated organza and short drop shoulder sleeves. The ballroom length skirt was of organza with redingote detail of embroidered organza. Her slippers and picture hat were of horseshair braid and she carried a bouquet of emerald green gladioli. Bridesmaids wore Italian pink dresses identical to that of the honor at.

Chester McKee, Prairie Grove, Dwight Sandifer, Hope, Robert Arnold, Fayetteville, Benny Rivello, Camden, N. J., James House, Batesville, Joe McCutchan, Mansfield, Ark., Charles Hathcock, Fayetteville, and Harrison Brock of El Paso, Texas, cousins of the bride.

Sue Ellen Weddington and Ralph Weddington, Jr. served as candlelighters and Philip Hathcock was ring bearer.

Mrs. Hathcock chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of pink chantilly lace and chiffon. She wore a small matching hat of metallic cloth and her corsage of green threaded cymbidium orchids and lilies-of-the-valley were worn at her shoulder. Mrs. Parsons' floor length gown was of copper colored linen and beige lace. With it she wore a small hat of beige lace. Her shoulder corsage was of copper threaded cymbidium orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Members of the wedding party and parents of the bride and bridegroom formed the reception line.

The dining table was covered with a cloth of ecru point de venise lace over pink. The wedding cake centered the table and was flanked by silver candelabra holding cream colored candles flecked with silver dust. A silver bowl filled with pink roses and pink larkspur was placed on the buffet.

Punch was served on the terrace from a serving table skirted with pink satin, scalloped edged, with bows of pink satin ribbon and tiny ribbon and tiny pink rosebuds in each scallop. A white embroidered maderia table cloth was draped over the pink skirt. The silver punch bowl was flanked by five branched candelabra holding bobeco filled pink rosebuds and bows of pink tulle.

The couple left after the reception on a wedding trip after which they will make their home at 972 Douglas Street, Fayetteville. DOROTHY DIX

Unreasonable Demands

Dear Miss Dix: A few months ago my brother married one of my close friends who is a very fine girl, with a good office job and the makings of a splendid wife. However, she is becoming the laughing stock of her family and friends because of a childish demand for courtesies from her husband. He has always been most thoughtful and attentive in the little courtesies such as lighting cigarettes, opening doors, etc. However, she goes to extremes in expecting these attentions. She will sit in a car for five minutes waiting for him to open the door, or sit with an unlighted cigarette until someone lights it for her, although a cigarette lighter may be within arm's reach.

Lately, my brother seems to be resenting her attitude to the point where things that formerly came naturally to him now appear to be a nuisance.

Answer: One of the notable paradoxes of our age is the fact that women are more and more seeking equalization with men — even to the point of usurping age old masculine privileges — in so many things yet continue to demand meticulous attention to details which modern living actually should have outmoded long ago.

She's Highly Inconsiderate
While there is nothing so pleasant to see as a mannerly gentleman observing the amenities of social life, the picture changes abruptly when an exacting wife reduces courtesy to actual subservience. A wife is certainly lacking in consideration when she expects her husband to walk across the room to service her cigarette, when the means of lighting it are at her own fingertips.

However, Anna, I wouldn't worry too much about your sister-in-law if I were you. At the moment she is simply glorying in the fact that she has acquired a man unto herself and is working the poor boy to death as a mark of her triumph. The fact that he is beginning to be irked by her impositions is proof that he's not the doormat type, and friend wife will soon come down.

READY TO CAMPAIGN

New York, June 17 (AP) — Dr. Ruell G. Gallagher, assistant U. S. commissioner of education, has been named president of City College.

Gallagher, 48, was elected last night by the New York City Board of Higher Education.

from the clouds and take her place in the world of reality.
One should never judge the behavior of a young bride — or husband — too harshly in the first months of wedded bliss. Newly weds live in a world of their own, and cannot be expected to conform to normal standards for the first few months, at least. Your sister-in-law sounds like a nice girl in spite of her follies, and you should encourage your family to be patient with her until the settling down process sets in.

Dear Miss Dix: A friend of mine is expecting a baby in September, and I'd like to give her a shower. When is the best time to do this — just before the baby arrives, or after? What should be served and when?

Answer: The best time for a stork shower is about six weeks to two months before the baby is due. I haven't the space to outline refreshments, etc., but your public library will have books on parties that will give complete information on the details for your affair.

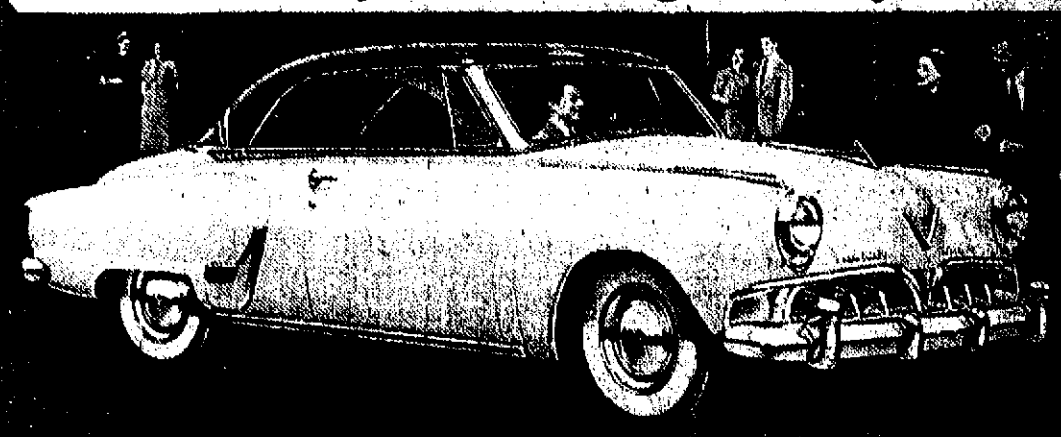

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 19, considered quite attractive. Over a year ago I had plastic surgery performed on my nose, which was a little long. As the change was slight, most people don't realize I had the operation and those who do say nothing about it. Recently I have been going with a boy who has proposed marriage, but as yet I haven't told him of my nose. I'm afraid if I tell him he'll think every thing about me is false.

G. E.
Answer: Your initial mistake was in shrouding the operation in so much mystery from the beginning. There is nothing humiliating or embarrassing in plastic surgery if you shouldn't have made your friends feel that it was a subject to be avoided. By all means tell your young man about it; he won't think any less for your cause of either the operation or your frankness.

Three Nations Discuss Threat

Washington, June 16 (AP) — Under threat of a possible new Russian move to split the West, United States officials start today a series of talks with British and French representatives on problems dividing the three powers.

The talks got added urgency in the week-end disclosure that the Soviet Union is assigning its chief foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, to be ambassador to London.

It looks to some officials like a new Russian move in the war — and, more than likely, aimed at disrupting the U. S. — French Alliance.

Against this background, the big powers will discuss, among other things:

1. France's desire for increased American help in carrying on its dollar-a-year war in Indo-China. This was expected to be the theme of conferences to be held by Jean L'etourneau, French minister for relations with the United States, who had an appointment with Secretary of State Acheson today.

2. The Frenchman's insistence on learning from State Department officials the United States' attitude toward a possible Communist attack on the Korean peninsula.

3. The conduct of Korean truce negotiations and the handling of the situation.

4. A review of the whole range of Allied difficulties, undoubtedly including the Korean, Russian, German and Indo-Chinese as well as other problems. This is expected to be held by the British, French and American foreign ministers when Acheson goes to London in little more than a week.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1952
By King Features Syndicate.

The New York Herald Tribune has been having sanctimonious hysterics over the frustration of General Eisenhower's mock-Republican convention. The old guard recognized the fact delegates.

Henry Zweifel, the Republican National committeeman, controls the machinery of the Texas convention under an old, recognized system, which governs the politics of many states and counties and all labor unions. Our machinery for presidential elections is irregular, in part obsolete, and, on the whole, seriously defective. Crude as it is, however, it is our own.

That the Herald Tribune should carry on about the shame and pity of it all as Mr. Zweifel put over his coup was expectable. This paper's editorial policy was dictated for critical and probably fatal years by Joe Barnes, the poor but proud protégé of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a notorious Red. Barnes himself is a friend of the Communists in Moscow as well as in New York was the political guide and social manager of Wendell Willkie on his pilgrimage to the Kremlin.

The H-T's book and drama departments have been tainted from the beginning of the New Deal and to all time it has never shown the slightest initiative in the minimum duties of a journal with pretensions to moral leadership.

It went out of its way to honor Eleanor Roosevelt instead of assigning its excellent city-side reporters to get the goods in the attempt to scare out of court John J. Glavin, a reputable Albany lawyer, who was preparing to file a divorce suit on behalf of Mrs. Earl Miller, the wife of Mrs. Roosevelt's favorite state cop.

Glavin has recounted these incidents in writing on his responsibility as a member of the bar and has charged that voice-recordings were taken of certain conversations without warning to him. The Herald Tribune has been a fellow-traveler of the New Deal under false Republican colors and now, having discredited itself, it is trying to compel the nomination of General Eisenhower by the Republicans in an obvious attempt to repair its own fortunes. That is motive enough to account for its unwelcome chastity in the Texas case.

Such support is not necessarily to be held against the general. Many honest Republicans would vote for him, waiving their misgivings over his submission to Roosevelt's tragic partition of Germany, in the hope that he had now learned his lesson. The Herald Tribune and the New York Times, a strict, party-line Democratic paper with no standing whatever in Republican councils, typify the mock-Republican bumpkinsness which Mr. Zweifel and the regular Republicans frustrated in Texas. These newspapers are not American but opportunist and these Texans who suddenly stormed the Republican convention in a body which Zweifel described as a mob were, in fact, Democrats suddenly determined to impose their influence on the Republican national convention in Chicago. They were thinking of patronage next winter and thereafter.

The Dallas News, a typical, other-handed Texas Democratic paper, expressed the impudence of this element six months ago. The News said these Democrats would go Republican if they could name the candidate. Its own candidate was Ike, in common with other Texas papers, the News put the proposition that the people of Texas were too stupid to vote for Taft — even though he might be the best Republican but would vote overwhelmingly for Ike solely because he had glimmer. No reliable way has yet been found to save the country from the folly of voters who like Ike for his grin alone. The best the Dallas News and its Texas contemporaries could say was that the people of Texas were not quite bright.

Mr. Zweifel realized that this was an attempt of a group of Democrats who know the jig was up, to grab control of the permanent, substantial Republican organization. So he relied on a few simple, if cynical, rules which are standard in all parties and, as I say, in the unions.

In the Texas Republican organization, the state executive committee has the power under the rules to draw up a temporary roll of the state convention, declare its own adherents to be duly elected and save them. These delegates then adopted a resolution validating their own election.

This is one familiar way of achieving a familiar political purpose. Another way, used by the Eisenhower faction in Connecticut is to gather up the delegates at the local caucuses. I observe that the Herald Tribune sent an agent all the way to Texas to denounce with fearless indignation a process which, in Connecticut, only an hour away by New Haven local, was worked unobserved for Eisenhower's benefit.

The regular Republicans have been soliciting votes in the South, but it would be folly to let the CIO take over, when the character of the intruders is as plain as it was here, without resort to the simplest political maneuver.

In union conventions, the method is even more direct. The boss goes home the committee on credentials, whose word is final. The committee goes only certified members of the party. The committee is named by the

IDLED BY HEAT STRIKES

Detroit, June 17 (AP) — Nearly 13,000 automobile plant workers were idled here yesterday by heat strikes.

The strikes, caused by a record-breaking 96 degree thermometer reading, idled 10,000 workers alone at the Hudson Motor Car Company. Others were out at Chrysler and Ford.

clides which issues shall be admitted to the floor and which shall be ignored. And, by this method, the elections of officers are run by microphone from the chairman's table and undesirable characters are thwarted in disruptive designs.

I would be the last to deny that the subject of jobs for the faithful old guard Republicans was forward in Mr. Zweifel's thoughts. Otherwise, he would have been unworthy of his trust.
